

MATSUNOBE / SUZUKI / TANAKA UNE FENETRE JAPONAISE

GALERIE DE MULTIPLES, PARIS 09.10-10.13/11

The galerie de multiples invites Super Window Project to curate a Japanese window in which the idea is to elaborate a proposition revolving around the concept of multiples, the outlines of their definition and to undertake a manner of translation. The Japanese window project brings together three artists: Soshi Matsunobe (1988), Takashi Suzuki (1971), Koki Tanaka (1975), whose creative processes integrate the design and production of works whose duplication is intrinsically bond to their stance. Here, embracing the practice of multiples is considered to be exploring of the realm of possibilities, through repeating a movement, the multiplicity of representation and interpretation angles. As many echoes and opportunities to question the notions of choice, of appropriation and of decision.

Three reflections over forms emanating from and/or parallel to the history of ready-mades, which nonetheless draw on the conditions of their emergence, their implementation, their transmission, their distribution and their validity, and raise the issues of borrowing, assimilation, detachment, whether geographic, ideological or conceptual.

A Japanese window that also questions the meaning and value of nationality in a time of porosity of ideas, catastrophes and plural contaminations.

On the occasion of the opening, Velveljin (an artistic group hovering between repetitive music, video and film, which came to life in Kyoto in 2009) will perform in echo to the show and the release of its first album, "nostalgia". www.velveljin.com
